

the wag way.

Summer is quickly approaching, bringing with it great weather and a renewed sense of urgency to enjoy the outdoors with our pets. In this issue I will point out a few simple measures you can take to ensure your pet remains safe in the summer weather, and how Wag Hotels can help.

Never Leave Your Pet in the Car

You may be tempted to take your pet with you while you run errands, but keep in mind that even if you are parked in the shade, the inside of your car can quickly reach dangerous temperatures.

Adjust Outdoor Exercise Routines

During the summer limit exercise to early morning or evening hours to help your pet avoid exposure to the hottest part of the day. Additionally, ensure your pet has access to plenty of water so that they can remain hydrated.

Keep Your Pet Groomed

Keeping your pet well groomed will allow their hair to do what it was designed to do: offer protection from the sun and heat. If your dog has extremely thick hair or a lot of mats and tangles, their fur may trap too much heat and cause them to overheat.

Protect Your Pet

Make sure your pet's vaccinations are up to date and that they are on a flea, tick and heartworm preventative treatment. Spending more time outdoors will increase the likelihood of your pet coming into contact with parasites.
